NASHVILLE AROUSED AS TWO BANDITS CAPTURE PAYROLL

Fall Fair Here Now Is Assured For This Year

COUNCIL VOTES TO GIVE FREE LICENSE TO HELP THE EVENT

Co-operation Pledged By Many Agencies To Promoters

TENTATIVE DATES SET FOR THE FAIR

Mr. Ballew Already Has Won Many Prizes With Farm Exhibits

A fair will be held here this fall. Assurances were given that the fair would be undertaken when the Albany city council Friday evening gave its approval to the project and released the promoters from the necessity of paying license.

Plans for the fair have been before the board and asked the consideration of the council for the plan. Mr. Ballew is well known in fair circles, having arranged a number of Morgan County farm exhibits which won blue ribbons in various exhibitions.

Tentative dates for the local exhibition have been set for September 20 to 25 inclusive.

Efforts have been made for a long time to inaugurate an annual fall show of agricultural products and industrial products manufactured in this immediate section. The plan offered by Mr. Ballew it was believed will bring about this annual production, and the cooperation of many agencies has been pledged to make the event a success.

HEARING RECORD TO BE SENT TO MALONE

Proceedings of Parley With Commission To Be Made Public

Proceedings between City of Albany representatives and the state highway commission of Alabama, late in 1924 or early in 1925, with regard to the agreement between the city and the commission on 'Echols Hill' repair and maintenance will be made public within a short time. B. L. Malone, one of the representatives of the city to the commission has asked that records of the proceedings be mailed here.

The publication of these proceedings is planned primarily that the citizens of these cities may learn where the fault lies with regard to the repair and maintenance of the Bee Line highway link.

Mr. Malone stated today that he has been notified that the records of the meeting would be mailed to him immediately.

Another Report of "Peeping Tom"

Albany city officers Friday evening received a call to seek another "Peeping Tom," who was reported to have been prowling about a local residence. The man had gone, however before officers could reach the scene.

Peepers have been giving much trouble to authorities of the Twin Cities during the past few days and they are bending every effort to break up the practice.

EVINS DECLINES TO ACT ON CHARGES IN BLACK STATEMENT

Chairman Asserts The Enforcement Up To State Itself

CHARGES SENT TO 3 CANDIDATES

Copies of Reply Also Are Forwarded To Them

(Associated Press)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 5.—Declaring that enforcement of the corrupt practices act is a state matter and not one to be governed by the democratic party, except where there is the contest of a nomination, Judge R. B. Evins, chairman of the democratic executive committee, today responded to a letter from Hugo L. Black, candidate for the United States senate, in which the latter charged L. B. Musgrove, John H. Bankhead and Thomas E. Kilby have been guilty of violating these statutes.

Judge Evins, in addition, forwarded copies of Mr. Black's charges to the three candidates, along with copies of his reply to the Birmingham candidate.

The letter from the chairman of the state democratic executive committee sets out that the corrupt practice act limits the expenditures of the candidates for the senate to $10,000 and that no disbursements in the promotion of the relative candidacies of the senate aspirants can be made lawfully, except by legally appointed committees.

However, Judge Evins expresses the opinion that statute is calculated to prohibit the disbursement of money and not the publication of literature. After pointing out that the committee has no injunctive powers, or criminal jurisdiction, Judge Evins closed by stating that if Mr. Black believes the committee has more extensive powers, to make them known.

WOUNDED WOMAN IS LIKELY TO RECOVER

Mrs. Fannie Peebles Is Removed To Hospital For Treatment

Mrs. Fannie Peebles, who was taken to Benevolent hospital last night, suffering from a pistol wound in her right breast, was reported today to be resting well. It is believed she will recover.

Mrs. Peebles who resides on West Vine street, was taken to the hospital after it is reported, she received a self-inflicted wound through her right shoulder. The shooting occurred about 8:30 o'clock last night and the woman was taken to the hospital in Brown's ambulance, being given medical attention by Dr. H. D. Greer and Dr. J. Y. Hamil.

Mississippi Boy Looked For Here

William Henderson, 17-year-old McComb, Miss., lad who disappeared from his home there Wednesday, immediately after graduation, may be en route to the Twin Cities and relatives here have been asked to be on the lookout for him. His parents are very anxious about him and have requested that any word in regard to his whereabouts be communicated to them immediately.

WORK PROGRESSES ON BEE LINE ROAD

Grading Expected to Be Finished By First of November

Work has been started by J. B. Turner, contractor on the grading of the Bee Line Highway near Cullman. It is expected that the grading will be completed by November 1 after which the incomplete links in the vicinity of Cullman will be given an asphalt top.

The road will be 26 feet wide. The asphalt surface will be 18 feet in width, with four feet shoulders on each side.

Several minor changes will be made in the present road north of Cullman, in order to eliminate curves and to reduce some of the grades. The necessary rights-of-way have been secured by Cullman county and the work is expected to proceed without any interruption whatever.

PRIEST APPEALS TO CIRCUIT COURT

Jail Sentence Given In Police Court In Birmingham

(Associated Press)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 5.—An appeal to circuit court today was perfected in a case of Father Lawrence J. Carroll, a priest at the church of the Blessed Sacrament, West End, who was yesterday convicted in police court on charges of disorderly conduct.

The priest was sentenced to jail for 180 days and to pay a fine of $100. Two witnesses made serious charges against Father Carroll, who denied every allegation. The witnesses were Jack Nyland, who lives at the Salvation Army headquarters and Frances Quinn, American hotel.

Father Carroll, testifying that he had never seen Nyland and did not recall ever having seen Quinn.

ALL sorts of little news, nothing very important on the surface. But, sometimes, days that seem dull, as you pass through them, become important later.

On a certain fourteenth of July, you remember, the French king, Louis Sixteenth, went hunting, got no game and wrote in his diary one word, "rien" which means "nothing." On that day the Bastille was torn down, which meant that Louis's head was to be chopped off a little later.

THE main thing is to make it short, which Fez men find easy. Hanging in his playhouse elevator, William A. Brady has this wise word, in smallest type.

"The more you say, the less people remember."

MONEY was cheap again yesterday, only 3 1-2 per cent, if you wanted it for stock gambling, more if you wanted to build a house. Stocks were cheerful and up. New dividends were declared by stocks that paid note before, bigger dividends by those with the dividend habit.

NEW YORK'S old-fashioned Fifth Avenue bank, on the corner of Forty-fourth street, paid its usual dividend yesterday at the rate of 24 per cent and an extra dividend of 26 per cent, for the quarter. A good, fair return on your money.

That little bank was started, as old gentlemen remember, that a few select ladies, lunching across the street at Delmonico's, might combine banking with luncheons. Delmonico's is gone, the ladies are gone.

PROHIBITION news is varied, American colleges are overwhelmingly wet. Of 7,011 students voting, ninety-two per cent want the law

CHICAGO, June 5.—Tired of life, Mrs. M. D. Tillman, 35, poisoned her baby boy, 18 months old, and a daughter, three, then ended her own life.

A daughter, nine, found the bodies when she returned from school late yesterday. The woman left a note which said she "could not stand this life any longer," and that she was "taking the children out of their misery because the body already is beginning to show the characteristics of his father."

A bottle, which had contained poison, was found near the three bodies. Clutched in the woman's hand was a copy of Ibsen's tragic drama, "The Doll House."

Melvin Tillman, the husband and father, and sales manager for an Alabama pipe company with headquarters here, declared his wife had been jealous of his secretary, who came here from Alabama with the Tillman family. He is a distant relative of the late Senator Ben Tillman, of South Carolina, he told authorities.

Highway Now Open North of Athens

The five mile stretch of the Bee Line highway north of Athens is again open, it was stated here today by travelers over the road. The highway was reported closed for some weeks while the state highway department completed grading. Work is still being done on the highway, but automobiles are allowed to pass, it was stated.

Woman Saves Baby From Well at Home

A story of how a mother's presence of mind saved her baby from drowning in the bottom of a well at their home in the Walnut Grove section is being told here by visitors.

Mrs. Sid Clay was notified by one of her children that the baby of the family had fallen into a 30 foot well, in which about eight feet of water stood. The baby had grabbed a root and was holding on. Mrs. Clay obtained a rope and lowered her 15 year old son into the well, the latter catching hold of the younger child. Mrs. Clay then pulled them both to safety.

The baby was unharmed, complaining: "Mamma, wet."

JUNIOR DIRECTORS TO MEET MONDAY

Plans Will Be Made To Entertain Visitors During Month

Directors of the Albany-Decatur Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday evening at seven o'clock at which time it is expected that final arrangements will be made for entertaining the Eastern representatives of an industrial plant who plan to visit this section this month.

The Monday evening meeting probably will be the last one before the arrival of the representatives and it will be necessary to conclude the plans for receiving them.

The representatives will be requested to make a direct offer to the Twin Cities, local business men having requested the Juniors to go ahead with the negotiations, with the assurance the business men are behind them solidly. Little difficulty is expected to be encountered in raising the necessary funds.

TUSCUMBIA YOUTH DROWNS IN CREEK

Frederick Vinible Gives Up Life As Fatal Ending of Swim

(Associated Press)
SHEFFIELD, Ala., June 5.—Frederick Vinible, a Tuscumbia youth, residing on Sixth and Milton streets, was drowned this morning in Spring Creek, back of the grand stand in Spring park.

Young Vinible went swimming this morning with two companions, Edward Davis and Joe Tom Tate, both of Tuscumbia. Vinible could not swim very well and after he had been in the water only a few minutes, he ventured out to deep water and was unable to get back to shore.

When Vinible went under the first time, Edward Davis went to his rescue but was unable to help him and was almost drowned himself. Seeing that rescue on their part was impossible, Tate and Davis ran to the park for help. There they found Lawson and Grady Moss, who dropped their work and came to at once, while other help was summoned from town.

After about an hour's search the body was found about five feet from where he went under in the deepest part of the creek. The body was brought to the top by William Hackly and with the help of Grady Moss, the body was brought to the shore.

A physician arrived about ten minutes later and pronounced him dead.

Crops Are Hurt By Hail Storm Thurs.

Though he did not estimate the damage done, W. M. Brothers, Albany, Route 4, resident, stated today that the hail, wind and rain storm of Thursday afternoon did considerable damage to growing cotton and corn. The hail, Mr. Brothers stated, was as damaging as the storm the earlier part of the spring when many stories of hail damage were recorded.

Witness Sent To Cleveland, Ohio

Morgan County officers announced Saturday that a witness has been sent to Cleveland, O., to attempt to identify the man held there as the slayer of T. A. Bryant, Albany merchant who was killed while resisting an effort to rob his store on West Market street.

If the identification is made, an officer will be sent north with requisition papers to bring the suspect back here for trial.

RAINS DELAY WORK

Rains have delayed the work of painting the big reservoir of the Alabama Water company here and the "gigantic tank" is not in use yet. Officials are hopeful, however, of having it ready for use by next week.

GOVERNOR'S RACE TURNS TO ISSUE OF ROADS FOR FUTURE

$8,000,000 Each Year For Roads Is Plan of Patterson

NO ADDITIONAL TAX PROPOSED

Candidacy of Morgan Man Receives Boost Over Entire State

Advocating $8,000,000 for new highways in Alabama for the next four years Andrew G. Patterson, Morgan County candidate for governor, today entered Lauderdale and Limestone counties. Mr. Patterson made a similar talk in Pickens county on Thursday.

Mr. Patterson, here Friday night for a brief conference with friends, talked of the situation over the state in encouraging terms and found that the situation at home is all that can be asked. Patterson backers estimated that his home county will give him the largest majority that has ever been rolled up in this county for a home candidate. Delegations from various county sections met here with the Albany-Decatur representation to greet the Morgan candidate.

With the issue clearly drawn between Patterson and McDowell and the subject of Alabama's road future standing paramount in the gubernatorial fight, Mr. Patterson outlined the plan to his friends, which he reviewed in Pickens county and will outline in North Alabama counties today. Mr. Patterson proposes that $8,000,000 per year can be realized each year for four years for new highways. He proposes the working of convicts on the highways, the gasoline tax and the license tax as a means for raising this fund. He likewise points out that the present highway commission has averaged but $5,000,000 in expenditure for the past four years. He continues to regard the $75,000,000 bond issue upon which Mr. McDowell bases his candidacy, as a commercial disaster for the state of Alabama, bringing, as it will, the bonded debt of the state to $119,000,000.

Talking of the bond issue the Morgan candidate was of the opinion that the "Pay-As-You-Go" road is the safest and sanest step Alabama might take while considering a road future. He indicates that North Carolina is the only state in the south in which a bond issue has been passed and points to Georgia Florida and Tennessee as the "Pay-As-You-Go" examples. He declares that long after other states have abandoned taxation for highways that Alabama will still be taxing people in the state and tourists and travelers coming into Alabama. He asks then, "where will the tourist and traveling trade go to, what route will they seek if they know that just as good highways can be found in other states and at no cost."

The Patterson candidacy has received tremendous impetus within the past few weeks and backers of the Morgan County man, declare that when the final drive is closed in August that the Patterson standard will be decorated with the laurel wreath of victory.

Witness Sent To Cleveland, Ohio

Morgan County officers announced Saturday that a witness has been sent to Cleveland, O., to attempt to identify the man held there as the slayer of T. A. Bryant, Albany merchant who was killed while resisting an effort to rob his store on West Market street.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY YIELDS FAT PAYROLL OF MAIL POUCHES

Bus Is Held Up Near Filling Station On Lebanon Pike

TOTAL LOSS IS FULLY INSURED

Money Was Sent As Mail Matter By Federal Reserve

(Associated Press)
NASHVILLE, June 5.—Two men in a dilapidated touring car held up an automobile carrying the mail and a $34,250 payroll for the Dupont Rayon Co., at Old Hickory this morning.

The robbery occurred shortly after six o'clock near a filling station on the Lebanon pike. The robbers drove off toward Lebanon. The money was being sent to the Old Hickory branch of the Fourth National bank from the Federal Reserve bank here, according to officials of the branch office as mail matter. It was insured.

The mail and payroll were being carried in a bus operating between Nashville and Old Hickory. The robbers cut open the mail pouches and took only the registered mail. The payroll money taken included $2,000 in twenties, $12,000 in tens, $12,000 in fives $6,750 in ones and $1,250 in silver.

The money according to Federal Reserve officials was turned over to the postoffice yesterday afternoon.

MAJORITY BELIEVES 'DRY ORDER' LEGAL

Sub-Committee Votes Four To One For President's Edict

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 5.—A senate judiciary sub-committee today divided four to one in upholding the legality of President Coolidge's executive order, authorizing the employment of state officers as federal prohibition enforcement agents.

Chairman Cummins and Senators Borah, Idaho, and Goff of West Virginia, republicans, and Walsh, democrat, Montana, held that the order was legal, while Senator King, democrat, Utah, contended that the President acted without the necessary legal authority.

The sub-committee will make its report to the entire committee Monday and Senator Cummins hopes to report to the senate on the same day.

Senator King said today he would submit minority views. He is the author of the resolution under which the sub-committee made its inquiry.

Automotive Folk Work on Survey

The Alabama Automotive Association now asking funds from members for the survey of Alabama road conditions, the reason for poor roads and the best step to take for the future, is steadily moving toward the making of that survey, it was stated here today by a member of the association.

It is not known if the survey will be ready for the public before the date of the state primaries, but the Association is making all haste in an effort to present the issue to the people before the selection of the next governor it was stated.

GOLDEN COCOON

SYNOPSIS

Molly Cochran, wife of the Texas Governor, has disappeared from home when threatened with exposure of an innocent but suspicious incident in her childhood. She feared her husband's political career would be imperiled, she is now living in poverty in New York, hoping to enter upon a literary career. Finally she gets a typewriting assignment from Myron Eldredge, the famous dramatic critic.

A few evenings later he came back. "No, don't bother about what now," he said, when Molly started to take up the work he had brought. He and the secretary were still at daggers' points though spasmodic overtures of peace were being made on both sides. "Sit down. I want to talk to you." And when he had her opposite at the table, "I've got a straight, safe, and sane business proposition to make to you. Well, it's not altogether business either."

"Your play's not impossible. Of course you know no more about practical stage technique than a babe unborn—very little more—but I can help you there. I may be able to get it put on."

"Meanwhile—you're in a hard row. You've had, I take it, about as much poverty as one person can be expected to stand in a lifetime. Poverty up to a certain point may be all right. Beyond that it's deadly and blinding. It grinds down the soul. I think you've reached that point."

"I like you. I couldn't say why, exactly, but that first morning lose all meaning—what little value it has left. It would be better I hadn't lived at all."

"He went away directly, puzzled, impatient—by no means convinced."

Two evenings later he appeared. "Get out the play," he ordered at once. "We're going to work on it tonight. Well, what's the trouble?" he added irritably, when Molly made no move to obey.

"It wouldn't be fair. Your helping me with the play means so much—more than anything else in the world, almost. And I can't do anything for you in return. I can't ever, you know. It's absolutely final."

"Oh, well, hang it all," he said, more irritably. "I'm not asking any pay, am I? I've done as much for plenty of other people without getting—or getting—anything in return. Bring out the blessed play."

Molly brought it out.

"Queer about this man, Cochran—damned queer. . . . The scene again was Molly's little sitting-room; the time some weeks after the play had gone on. Eldredge shifted his paper under the reading lamp to get a better light on it.

"Why queer?" she said at last, when she could trust herself to speak.

"A politician who doesn't want anything—Great Scott! Why, see here," he trumpeted—the headlines impatiently, "only today, he's turned down the highest office in the gift of the Executive—who, if rumor's to be trusted, pretty well owes his job to him. No—he shook his head sagely—"I don't understand half I know about it. Neither does anybody else. But my prophetic nose tells me there's something rotten at the home address of Hamlet!"

"Maybe he doesn't want anything," Molly ventured.

"Well, my theory is, he's only taking this startling and unheard of method to advertise himself. Next thing he'll be coming out for President or the Lord knows what. Clever—damned clever."

"It's too bad, don't you think, that we can't even conceive of a man's giving whatever talent he has to his country without wanting anything in return?" Molly suggested quietly.

"Yes—one might suppose in a nation of millionaires there would be a dozen men who would turn to politics as a science, an art, a recreation, even—just as others turn to collecting and the like. But, no, it's far more important we should have the latest assemblage of Napoleon's snuff boxes or some slinkily looking Madonna of Benvenuto Cellini."

"I was at a little dinner last night given in this Cochran man's honor—guess that's what set me going about him. He seemed a quiet, unpretentious sort all right—spoke briefly. . . .

"By the way, the woman he is to marry was there, too—a charming creature, great favorite in Washington official circles, I understand. Great favorites with the old dowager, his mother, too—which is far more important!"

"Who was this woman, anyway? What was she that she dared . . . ?

"Charming," he had said. Rich, too, no doubt, cultured, of good family—everything that she, Molly, should have been. A great favorite, moreover, with his mother. . . .

Again and again she was beaten down, driven into a corner. She was on the point of deciding to go to Greg at once—near, oh so dangerously near in Washington. She would tell him everything, implore him for some life in common, even though it were secret. That other woman—what was she? But reason stepped in coldly to intervene. She knew he would never consent to such an arrangement, and besides there would be still a twofold danger of exposure; a danger all the more critical now that he was getting to be not merely a national but an international figure.

No, she must abide by her decision.

CHAPTER XXIX

With spring came America's entrance into the war.

Among the amazing recessions and emergencies of that amazing period, nothing was more remarkable than the part played by a certain quiet man from the "wilds of the Southwest." Abroad, no one was listened to with more respect, both for himself and for what he unofficially represented. At home, no one, with the exception of the Executive himself, was more besieged, invoked, harassed.

The facts were too simple and obvious to be believed, and a thousand absurd and fantastic stories were abroad. Among these the rumor of his approaching marriage persisted.

Family Asks For Aid To Be Given

Henry Russell, 51 Gum street east Albany, today requested the Daily to make known serious needs within his family. Mr. Russell explained that he was not able to do much work himself and his wife had been confined to her bed for the past two months with an attack of pneumonia. He declared that anything would be appreciated.

600 Street Tax Notices Served

Work of serving street tax notices, under the direction of Assistant City Clerk John Wilks, is proceeding in Albany. Mr. Wilks has served about 600 of the notices to date. Probably ten days more will be required to finish the job. The street tax will net the city several thousand dollars.

Collier at Mentone, Toon Will Preach

Rev. B. P. Collier, pastor of the First Baptist church, Albany, is at Mentone attending the convention of the B. Y. P. U. and no services will be held at First Baptist church Sunday morning, it was stated today. L. E. Toon will conduct services Sunday evening at the church, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Candidates To Redouble Effort

Candidates for county office, now that the entry lists have closed, are planning to redouble their efforts, beginning next week and continuing to the primary date, August 10. Practically all of the county candidates have mapped out itineraries which will take them into all sections of the county within the next eight weeks.

Selma is to have a new athletic field which will be located near the new country club, a school is to be erected on the old athletic field.

Florence is to have a new industry in the Gardner Warren company, manufacturers of knit underwear and similar products. Citizens of the town subscribed $75,000 for the industry which will employ from 200 to 400 men.

Summer Breeze Not Cooling Race

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 5—Summer breezes are blowing but not enough to cool the melting political pot that is boiling here as time for the state primary draws near.

While in some sections of Alabama, the political fervor has waned to a certain temperature, following the earlier effects for announcement for office, the Capitol city always a hotbed of politics takes on a hotter atmosphere daily.

Perhaps the latest ray of heat was gathered by the announcement of the Birmingham Age-Herald and associated papers that they would back A. G. Patterson for governor. This caused a surprise in political circles here, and of late has been the center of discussion in many places where politics are discussed.

Already the Birmingham News and the Montgomery Advertiser have lined up behind Charles McDowell for governor, and this throws two of the strongest newspaper associations in the state backing a man.

Another topic of conversation for followers of politics is the coming debates between Thomas E. Kilby and John H. Bankhead, both candidates for U. S. Senate. These are to take place on June 10, 11, 12 at Florence, Sheffield and Tusculum. Originally the arguments were intended to center about the discussion of the Muscle Shoals question but each candidate has agreed to throw the debate open to all topics.

A whisper is also circulating around the capitol corridors that one of the candidates for governor, who thus far has been making a strong bid, is about to withdraw. No official confirmation of this rumor is had, but the announcement formally of this action would cause great surprise, politicians assert.

The main issues in the race for governor continue to be the convict leasing system the $75,000,000 road bond issue and the schools question.

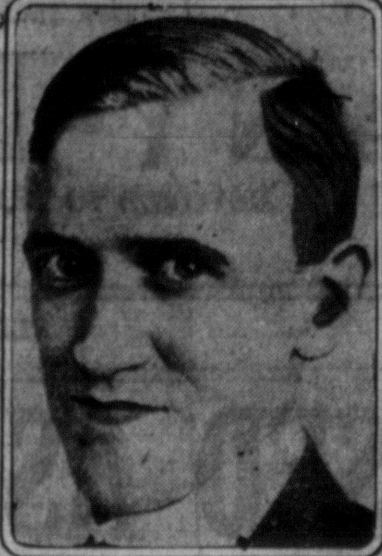

Candidates for both the prime offices and the smaller state offices of less interest, as well as county contestants continue to work in the field making speaking tours of the state, and placing their platforms before the voters of the different sections.

The date for the democratic primary is August 10 when the state political campaign will reach its climax.

Franchise Granted Postal Telegraph

A franchise has been granted by the Albany city council to the Postal telegraph company to erect certain poles and lines within the city. It is understood the Postal desires to serve cotton offices principally with their new line. The franchise was voted by the council at its regular meeting Friday evening.

The Torque Tube is a sturdy backbone for BUICK quality

It holds the rear axle firmly and staunchly in true alignment, regardless of road inequalities. Twist and wear on the drive shaft and axle are eradicated. Two universal joints are unnecessary. It would be impossible, because Buick has the Torque Tube Drive, to drive a Buick from New York to San Francisco with all four springs broken. The Torque Tube also seals the drive shaft from the dirt and wear of the road. Look at the strength of the Buick chassis and make a comparison with competitive motor cars, before you buy your transportation. You can see Buick's superiority with the naked eye. Tire Shortage Now Looms For Nation

Frank P. Lide, prominent local business man, today reviewed a statement made by William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber company, relating to a shortage of automobile tires in the United States. Mr. Lide based his opinion in concurrence with O'Neil in the following statement: "Surplus stocks of tires are rapidly being reduced. If the public purchases tires in proportion to its needs as they are indicated by figures of last year, I can see a serious tire shortage. The opinion is based on a nationwide investigation which Mr. O'Neil has just made and which has shown that dealers and distributors have but 9,000,000 tires in stock, as compared to 16,000,000 which the past has proved to be the general stock for this time of the year." Mr. O'Neil's article is taken from a current issue of the Automotive Daily News, published at New York.

Mobile was the only town in the state to have a fire loss in excess of $5 per capita during 1925. There it was $5.22 as compiled in figures of Chester E. Johnson state fire marshal.

Alabama Industrial Activity Featured By Many Things, Including Cotton Exports

(Associated Press)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 5.—Alabama's industrial activity at this time is featured by many things, chief of which is the shipment being made from this state to cotton gins to Russia.

Beginning June 1, Alabama's export business was expected to take on greater activity with the probability that before the end of the year there will be many shipments made of quantities of steel, iron and steel products, coal and coal products and other articles of manufacture of the industrial sections of Alabama.

Water transportation has until now held business down for Alabama in shipping to the southwest district of the United States.

This has been overcome and a program of extensive exportation of products of this state is now being worked out and big tonnages are to be shipped through the ports of Mobile and New Orleans, much business being in sight long before the port of Mobile development has been completed.

The Mississippi-Warrior rivers barge service, a government operation, has received 19 of its 24 steel barges ordered several months ago. Bookings are being made on steel, in various shapes, cast iron pipe and other products of the industrial section for shipment to the far west, to Texas points and for exports. Japan is getting rail from this section. California and Washington state are getting cast iron pipe from here. Cuba is taking pipe and sugar machinery repairs are being moved from here. South America is taking copper concentration machinery from Birmingham.

Warrior River Terminals, the railroad connection from the river to Ensley, has "connected" tracks with the Birmingham Southern, subsidiary of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, and other railroad lines at Ensley and is now prepared to participate in traffic for the river movement.

Continental Gin company, Birmingham, is shipping gins to Russia on an order which will involve a considerable amount of business before completed, these movements being via Charleston and New Orleans.

Warehouses by the Steel Corporation in the far west in the southwest and elsewhere will be reached from this district by the water transportation from now on. Central and South America and boats plying between those countries and Louisiana and Alabama ports will get fuel from here more than ever before.

Central Iron and Coal company, (Universal Pipe) will use the river for steady movements of its pipe from now on.

The new centrifugal pipe shop of America Cast Iron Pipe company, Birmingham will be in operation within two weeks. America Radiator company is expected to make a formal announcement of addition to its plant at North Birmingham, doubling the capacity of shops. National Cast Iron Pipe company has plans for developments in the future and good results are being obtained from its new method of iron melting, cupola construction being under new patent. Superstructure work on the Phoenix Portland Cement Corporation at Powderly is now under way.

Fourteen thousand tons of cast iron pipe will be used in developments at St. Petersburg, Fla., in the next several months and the product will be furnished by the Birmingham district reports having it that the National Cast Iron Pipe company will fill most of the order. The Southern Pacific railroad has placed a generous proportion of its order of 24,000 tons of steel rail to the Ensley mills of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company. The Louisville and Nashville railroad has placed an order with the Tennessee Company for 1,000 tons of steel plate to be used in shops of the company.

Reports of industrial nature from throughout the state indicate great activity and labor employment during the next 12 months.

Large Crowds at Carnival Friday

Approximately 1,000 people attended the carnival held on the Y. M. C. A. lawn Friday night, the event today being declared a complete success. Among the many attractive booths were: eight wonders, Hawaiian girls, Mellin's foot babies, bluebeards wives, house of horrors the midgets and the fish pond. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Albany-Decatur Grotto band.

Proceeds from the entertainment will go towards the maintenance of Community houses in Albany and Decatur.

GADSDEN TIMES-NEWS OPPOSED TO "CONTRIBUTING" TAX TO RAILROADS

The Gadsden Times-News, which newspaper recently announced its decision to support the candidacy of A. G. Patterson for governor, can see no reason why Alabama should "contribute" about a million and half dollars in taxes to the railroads of this state each year and makes a remarkably clear explanation of the position of Mr. Patterson on this important issue.

The Gadsden paper asserts:

It hardly seems reasonable that Alabama should be actually contributing to the cost of maintaining the governments of the other Southern states, but this is actually the case.

For the past six years this state has been apparently taking $1,500,000 per annum from its own coffers and putting this amount into the treasuries of the other nine Southern states east of the Mississippi.

A new law was passed by Congress in 1920 under which the railroads are assured of a net income of 5.75 per cent on the fair value of their property, and all taxes are chargeable to operating expenses.

The rates of the railroads are made on a common level over large territories, embracing a number of states. All of the Southern States east of the Mississippi are now in one rate-making group.

Official records show that the ten Southern states east of the Mississippi river collected in 1924—the last year for which information is available—an average of $1,076 per mile of road in taxes.

Alabama collected an average of only $646 per mile.

When one state collects less taxes from the railroads than the other states, the state which fails to get its proportionate share of these taxes is actually contributing something to the support of the other states.

This condition of affairs has been pointed out by Hon. A. G. Patterson, president of the Alabama Public Utilities Commission, who for six years has been in a position to become conversant with every phase of the affairs of the railroads operating in Alabama, by virtue of his position.

$1,500,000 per annum saved for the tax-payers of Alabama by the equalization of this tax will not be affected without a howl from the railroads, but Mr. Patterson proposes to save that $1,500,000 per year for the people of Alabama, despite the howl, if he is elected governor of Alabama for the coming term.

If there is any logical reason why this state should be contributing such a sum to its sister states in order that it may keep from incurring the displeasure of the railroad companies, this newspaper is unable to see it.

A significant feature of the Times-News editorial is that, after all, the plan does not propose to "take" anything from the railroads except that which the state of Alabama believes it to be justly entitled to.

The proposal of Mr. Patterson is not a radical move. He merely proposes to put Alabama in the same class as the other Southern states as a tax collector. While other candidates flounder about in exhibits of verbal pyrotechnics, calling for better roads and better schools, without saying anything about providing money for these things, Mr. Patterson is going about the state, explaining to the people how funds may be raised. The railroad tax is one of several plans he has offered for increasing the revenues of the state, without taxing the already-burdened private citizen.

His plans are sound, plausible and easily understood. His statements are frank, open and above board. Is it any wonder that his campaign is drawing so many thousands of voters to his banner, as his gospel of progressiveness is spread?

MR. BLACK'S LETTER CALLS ATTENTION TO THE NEED FOR A REMEDY OF LAW

Hugo Black, of Birmingham, one of the candidates for the senate generally credited with not being blessed with an undue amount of worldly goods, has written a letter to Judge Evans, democratic committee chairman, urging the committee to bring an end to large expenditures of money in the senate race.

Mr. Black's letter calls attention to the need for a remedy of law in Alabama.

This state is peculiarly fortunate in possessing what, in many respects, is almost an ideal corrupt practice act. The rights of the voters have many safeguards in Alabama and the regulations prescribed for candidates for office in this state are numerous.

Yet, it is unreasonable to suppose that a candidate for the United States senate should be limited to an expenditure of $10,000 to obtain the nomination. The Selma Times-Journal very aptly points out that it is estimated $10,000 would be required to send one letter to the voters of the state.

What would the people think of a candidate who filed his declaration with the party officials, wrote a letter to the voters of the state, setting forth his claims, and then quit the campaign? Yet, the law provides that is about all of the campaigning he is permitted to do. Naturally, the law does not prohibit further activities, but its effect is the same. The candidate cannot continue the campaign without use of money directly by himself, or the use of money in his behalf by his friends. Some way must be found to circumvent the limitations of the law, or a candidate is permitted to wage no campaign after his initial announcement to voters that he is a candidate.

Of course, a candidate might announce without taking the people into his confidence as to what his platform will be, but would the people be the gainers if such a policy was pursued? After all, isn't an active discussion of the various candidates, their talents, their ability and their records one of the most wholesome features of the American system of election?

As The Daily sees the situation, the greatest trouble with America's political system is that there is not enough discussion of men and measures; not enough people take an active and direct interest in these things.

How can this latter condition be improved, if the candidates are not to be permitted to take their causes to the people. Certainly the public must be furnished with information in regard to the race and somebody must bear the burden of the cost. What safer source could be found for providing the funds for the campaign than the candidate. Isn't it better to have him pay as he goes, than to have him burdened with obligations incurred as a result of someone else having expended money in his behalf?

The Daily admits freely that $10,000 is a good deal of money to be spent to obtain a political office. Perhaps running for office should not be such an expensive proposition, and $10,000 should be sufficient, but the fact remains that campaigns are costly and that $10,000 is not sufficient money to pay the cost of a campaign for the senate.

What, then is the better plan? To insist that candidates accomplish an impossible task, or blind our eyes to the spending of more money than the law allows? The first theory is out of the question, The Daily believes. The second is not good for the candidate, nor is it good for the people.

Let us be reasonable about this question and raise the limit on senatorial expenditures to a point, where the legal cost and actual cost of a campaign can meet. Then let us enforce the law to the letter.

The point will be made that by increasing the expense limit in the senate, and perhaps some other campaigns, a bar will be raised against a man without means from offering for these offices. The Daily admits that the point is well taken, yet isn't there somewhat of a bar existing as things are now? Announcing for public office is not the only thing men without financial resources are forced to forego because of their lack of funds.

The Daily believes too, that many more candidates would offer for state office than now do offer, were it not for the fact that in so many instances they realize that while they might afford the expenditure of the amount allowed by law, they could not afford the expenditure of the amount of money necessary for them to wage an active campaign over a period of several months.

If there have been excessive expenditures in this state, it was the duty of Mr. Black, as a good citizen, to report them. The Daily does not profess to know anything about the financial side of the present campaign. At the same time, if there have been excessive expenditures this early in the race, isn't that only another evidence of the correctness of The Daily's contention? If more than $10,000 has been spent by some candidates already, what will the final cost be after a little more than two months more of campaigning?

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS for the Sabbath and Other Days

(By J. E. Blair)

A Mississippi physician, whose name my informant withheld, is a very popular doctor, because he storms and swears when his patients do not take his medicine as directed. The rich society women of the Mississippi city where our physician lives are "sold" absolutely as to the ability and wisdom of the "seafaring doctor." His sayings are repeated with satisfaction and glee. That physician has to keep more than one automobile, so as to have transportation at his command every moment of the day.

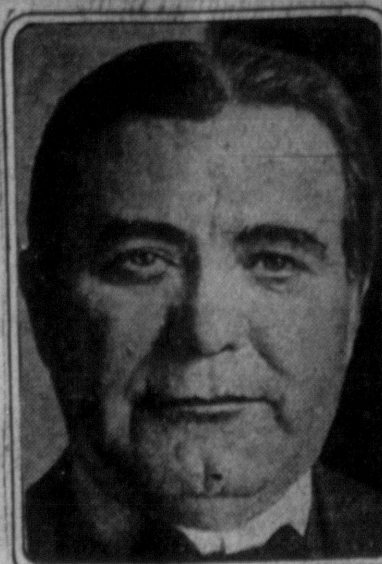

It is not difficult to see the reason of the popularity of the doctor. He believes in his medicine! He don't mind using the word "hell" and "damnation" to back up his judgement—and in the presence of ladies, too!

But of a doctor of the soul raises sand about his "patients" not taking his spiritual medicine—though it may come from the Bible itself—such a preacher of the gospel will not need several automobiles. No. He will not be wanted at the homes of his church people. He is liable to have any church if he gets "too" excited and aroused over sick souls and their need of the Great Physician, much less an automobile!

It is acceptable and funny to the ladies to hear their physical doctor talk plain to them about the necessity of their taking his medicine. It is not acceptable as a rule for soul doctors to tell it straight from the shoulder!

If a preacher uses the word "hell," unless he is very guarded—if he tells his hearers they are unbelievers or else they would believe and take the prescriptions of the Great Physician, he is either taken as a joke—which is the usual thing—or else his "hearers" "get mad about it." It is a great world we live in! But why, you ask are the Mississippi city society women just "crazy" about their seafaring physician, and we are so sober and serious or "mad" when our spiritual doctors of divinity "get in behind us?" Well, it is because we are interested in physical health, and KNOW we must take the medicines of health of die! We think our souls will just grow. We think "there is plenty of time on ahead" to heed the words of the Great Physician! All of which is wrong! Even if we could get forgiveness for our sins at the last minute—still there is no way to escape the effects of sin, either in this world or the world to come. We should delight in those who tell us "what is what"—"Whom the Lord loveth him He chasteneth."

Herson Jury Meets Again Soon

(Associated Press) BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 4.—The Herson county grand jury will meet again early in June to resume its work into alleged brutalities in Alabama convict camps, it was announced by County Solicitor Jim Davis. He is not through with our sifting conditions at Flat Top or Banner, Davis said. He also said that expected several more indictments to be returned before the investigation is complete.

Men now face charges of first degree murder as a result of indictments returned against them so in the investigation. Among them are Charles R. Davis, Sr., former warden at Flat Top. He and four convicts were indicted in connection with the death of James Knox, convict brought on the investigation. L. Bates former deputy warden at Flat Top, faces charges in connection with the death of Frank Harlan, a negro convict. Indictments at Banner mines will be returned this time the solicitor indicated. A truck filled with convicts from Banner will be brought to appear before the grand jury when the inquiry is resumed. Indictments of the men already indicted are scheduled for June and Davis said that he will make effort for early trials while witnesses are fresh and witnesses available.

Investigation of conditions at Banner mines were slated to come before the grand jury late in May, but death of John D. Jones, state law enforcement officer, on the Montgomery highway, near Birmingham at the time, caused an investigation that hid the convict probe.

MOTHERS CLUB

The meetings of the Albany-Decatur Mothers Club for the year 1925-26 have been very successful and interesting and it was with regret that the last meeting was held on Friday with Mrs. M. S. Bingham. There will probably be called meetings later to sew during the summer but this was the last official meeting.

Much unfinished business was closed after which the annual election of officers resulted as follows: president, Mrs. J. L. Proctor; vice president, Mrs. L. R. Nash; secretary, Mrs. T. Z. Bailey; treasurer, Mrs. Roy; chairman of the music committee, Mrs. H. R. Speske, chairman of the program committee, Mrs. B. M. Bloodworth; director of the Bureau of Exchange, Mrs. J. L. Draper. The president appointed a committee of three, Mrs. W. P. Baugh, Mrs. R. M. McGlathery and Mrs. J. L. Draper, to revise the constitution and by laws of the club. It was stated in the report from the membership committee that thirty-eight members were enrolled.

During the social hour, Misses Julia and Marion Bingham, talented young daughters of the hostess, rendered recitations and instrumental solos. Elaborate refreshments were served by the hostess late in the afternoon. Mrs. Bingham had several extra guests including: Mrs. Davis Hodges, Mrs. G. R. Mason, Mrs. S. S. Broadus, Mrs. Vera Austelle and Mrs. Rufus Pearson.

GODFREY-THOMPSON

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thompson announce the marriage of their daughter, Jennie Wilma to Mr. James Wilburn Godfrey. The wedding occurred Sunday, May 30th, 1926.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey are at home with the groom's mother, Mrs. Fanny Godfrey on East Vine street. They have hosts of friends who are very much interested in their announcement.

Mrs. Godfrey is a very attractive young girl and Mr. Godfrey who has made his home in Decatur for a number of years numbers his friends by his acquaintances.

LONG STANDING FUED TAKES TOLL OF ONE LIFE IN A FAMILY FIGHT

Starting As a Free For All Fight, Guns Are Brought Into Play and Shooting May Prove Fatal To Another

(Associated Press)

GADSDEN, June 5.—Mrs. Hugh Eason, 30, is dead, Crowley Eason 20, is in a Gadsden hospital believed to be fatally wounded and Clay Eason suffered the loss of an eye and was badly cut about the face in a family quarrel at Hartselle near here yesterday it was reported.

The fight was the result of a long standing feud according to reports.

The dying youth, nephew of the dead woman has two bullet wounds in his abdomen as the result of the firing of a pistol by Hugh Eason. The third bullet from the same gun found its mark in the heart of Mrs. Hugh Eason.

According to the story told here

Clay and Hugh Eason with their wives and children lived on one side of a pasture, on the other lived Wallace Eason with his two sons, Bill and Crowley. When Hugh Eason saw Bill and Crowley Eason destroying a dam that he and Clay had built he attacked the boys yesterday afternoon, Wallace the boys father, joined into the fight, and Clay came to the assistance of Hugh Eason.

Hugh and Clay seemed to be getting the worst of the fight, Hugh called to his wife to bring him a pistol and a minute later he opened fire on his attacker. Two bullets hit Crowley while a third killed his own wife.

Hugh Eason surrendered to the sheriff last night and was lodged in jail under a charge of murder.

Punning Features Political Campaign In This County; Only Two Are In Race

The old political art of punning is coming in for its full share of popularity on the streets of Albany-Decatur where political forces are clashing day after day, attempting to make the outlook for the August primary exceedingly bright for one candidate or the other. Apparently there are only two candidates in the race, so far as this section can learn.

Andrew G. Patterson for whom his backers state that this county will roll up the heaviest majority ever recorded in local politics and Charles S. McDowell are the only candidates who seemingly come in for prominent notice in the gubernatorial race. The other two candidates, A. H. Carmichael and Bibb Graves, apparently are without concentrated backing in this section.

One of the stories told regarding Mr. Patterson's candidacy, told by a single McDowell supporter related to the candidacy of the Morgan man in Limestone county. It was declared that a Patterson supporter had been found in Limestone county, way up near the Tennessee line. The political advocate of McDowell declared that after investigation that it was found the Limestone voter was laboring under the misapprehension that it was "Ham" Patterson running for governor.

Coming back in characteristic fashion the Patterson supporters told of coming upon a farmer stalled in the mud on one of the roads in the county who declared that at this late time in life he desired to vote for McDowell. He said that he had been in the mud all his life and did not believe he could ever become accustomed to good roads and therefore would support Mr. McDowell, believing that the same poor road conditions will continue to exist.

Opinions that lines have been drawn absolute in the governor's race are everywhere expressed. The public is lining up with Patterson and McDowell in decision upon the next man for governor, it is said.

Collier To Enter Training School

Reedus Collier, well known local young man, student at Alabama Polytechnic Institute of Auburn, will enter the Reserve Officers Training school at Camp McClellan soon. He plans to spend two months there this summer.

Two Will Talk at Central Methodist

FARM DEMONSTRATION NOTES

The Somerville Home Demonstration club met May 21st. The president, Mrs. Mary Cunningham, presided. Our secretary, Mrs. Miller being absent, Miss Alice Oden was asked to act as secretary. The members present voted to raise $1.65, our share on clock to be placed in Smith's Hall at Auburn, Alabama.

Textiles was our lesson for this meeting. Miss Hamilton gave us the principal details in construction of material, fibers construction and making fibers into yarn, and Mrs. Cunningham, one of our clothing leaders, gave some points on weaving and finishing the woven fabric.

We adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. Cunningham on June 25th.

Signed:

Alice Oden, Acting Sec.
Mrs. Mary Cunningham, Pres.

The following is from a message received by me from Mildred Crawford, one of our club girls attending the State Short Course for girls at Auburn this week:

"We have been judged on our traveling costume, and Kathryn and I won blue ribbons. Those who won blue ribbons were in a fashion show. The Campfire girls gave us a picnic supper Thursday night. We surely did enjoy it, too."

In order to win a blue ribbon a grade of 90 to 100 was required. Each of the 80 girls were judged on their costumes. Morgan girls were with some others at the top. We did not expect less of our representatives.

STOP OAT SMUT

By J. C. Ford, County Agent

As I travel over the county, I notice much smut in oats. Every head that is smutted is that much total loss, besides lowering the quality of the other oats by making them dusty and black. Considerable smut in oats will make a horse cough, showing that it is not good for him. I have seen oat crops that were 10 to 15 per cent smutted.

The only time to control smut is at planting time. The smut dust that carries over on the seed, start the smut in the new crop about the time the seed sprout in the ground. Treating the seed with a formaldehyde solution before planting will control smut. Any drug store can furnish the formaldehyde. One liquid ounce to two gallons of water is the right strength. Spread the oats on a floor or sheet and sprinkle and stir till thoroughly.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a girl of nineteen. I met a young man two years my senior. He has always asked me for a "date," but I always had to refuse because my parents won't let the boy come to the house or let me go out.

What shall I do? BROWN EYES. BROWN EYES: You must convince your parents, my dear, that it is quite proper for you to entertain your friends at home. Once they have given their permission you will be able to present your friends to them. Then they can judge whether or not they are worthy of you and your problem will be solved.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a young girl nineteen years old, and have been going with a young man in my home town for several years. He tells me he loves me and I deeply love him but he never speaks of getting married. This young man doesn't go with any other girls, and he doesn't want me to have any other boy friends. Please advise me what to do. LARGE.

LARGE: If this young man has not asked you to marry him, then he has no right to insist that you give up your other friends for him. This is very unfair, and you must explain the situation to him. Tell him that it is his privilege to go out with other girls, just as it is yours to accept attentions from other young men. Be tactful, although firm, and he should understand.

WEAK, RESTLESS

Tennessee Lady Had So Little Strength She "Couldn't Get Around." Took Cardui
With Benefit.

Gainesway, Tenn.—"I wasn't able to do any of my work, and it seemed like I had so little strength I just couldn't get around," says Mrs. Frank Murphy, who lives near here. "My mother knew of the good Cardui could do, so she told me to take it. I sent and got a bottle, and seemed like all the time I grew stronger."

"I had been suffering with pains in my sides all the time, and Cardui helped this wonderfully. I needed a tonic for female trouble, and Cardui just fitted the need. I was awfully restless and could not sleep at night, but after taking two bottles of Cardui I could sleep 'like a top.' I got along all right, and I know it was due to Cardui. I can certainly recommend it to women suffering from women's troubles."

"My present health is just fine." Thousands of women have written to tell how Cardui relieved them of pain and suffering, and helped them to improve in health and strength. Cardui is perfectly harmless, being an extract of mild-acting herbs, and contains no dangerous drugs or harmful ingredients.

Romance

Last night I discovered rich treasure, in a wind-swept and wave-beaten cove.

Jewels and gold in bountiful measure, A buccaneer's long buried trove.

I tasted the sweet draught of unshackled youth,

And rescued fair maidens from knaves,

I swung a bright sword for beauty and truth,

And killed Minotaurs in their caves.

Prehistoric pachyderms trembled and died,

As the stones from my sling sealed their fate,

Fair Helen the Trojan gazed at me with pride,

As I calmly slew Alex the Great.

Then the "Missus" appeared with our Sunny-haired laddie,

As Rome was preparing to fall,

She smiled as she told me he'd learned to say "Daddy,"

Oh boy! that's Romance after all.

SPORTS

Barons-Pels Lose; Dazzy Vance Takes First Win; Cincinnati Loses

The Birmingham Barons and the New Orleans Pelicans continue their leadership unabated, though both lost verdicts yesterday, to the Nashville Vols and Memphis Chicks. The Barons hopes fell 7-4 when Baron hurleders were a bit too free with the safeties. Griffin and Warmoth tied up in a hurling duel at New Orleans and the former won, dropping the Pels with three hits and blanking them in platter spiking antics.

New Orleans continues in the Southern league lead by a single game. The Vols are a full two games back of the Barons, while the Chicks are contesting the Vol stance from fourth place, only a half a game back.

Atlanta defeated Chattanooga 4-2, rain halting the game in the sixth frame. Eddie Lewis, former Twin, garnered one of the trio of blows.

Dazzy Vance, recovering from an attack of carbuncles and boils stepped into the win column yesterday, after having been denied that privilege since the Dodgers took to the art of trimming the Giants. Vance hurled his team to a 10-1 win yesterday over the Giants, giving up but four hits.

Cincinnati dropped another to Boston 8-5, Beantown folks making a tremendous effort to rise from the dark oblivion of the cellar. Bancroft's forces are still one full game lower than the Phillies, but at the present clip look as if they are destined for greater things, perhaps even the leadership of the second division, which is something out of the ordinary for a Boston entry.

Pirates continued their march yesterday against Chicago 5-1, Lee Meadows halting the Cubs with five hits. The Pirates are now within two games of Cincinnati and winning consistently.

In the two American league tilts, others being rained out, Detroit out-hit but lost to Cleveland 4-3, errors being responsible for the Tiger downfall. The St. Louis Browns blanked the White Sox 3-0, with Tom Zachery, veteran Senator doing the hurling. St. Louis made but four hits off Edwards and Thurston.

News that Lewie Hardage, Albany-Decatur man now coaching the Commodores at Vanderbilt, has perfected football guards which will not soak up water and perspiration is of much interest here. Hardage has likewise planned the manufacture of the new gear for the year 1927. The Commodore's will wear this gear next fall.

JAIL REPORT MADE

Ten prisoners was the peak number held in the Morgan County jail during the month of May, the report for that month, prepared today by Deputy Sheriff Frank Poole, showed. Six were in jail at the end of the month.

HARDAGE INVENTOR OF FOOTBALL GEAR

Former Star Places His Idea on Market Thru Manufacturing Firm

Lewis, Hardage, local resident, and former football star at Auburn and Vanderbilt, has invented a new style football playing togs which are likely to bring him fame and fortune. Patents already have been applied for, and a contract has been negotiated with a large manufacturing concern to make the new equipment. Because of the fact that the company already has made up its 1926 equipment, the Hardage gear will not be placed on the market before 1927.

Vanderbilt, however, will use the Hardage equipment next year. The new athletic stuff includes a new type shoulder pad, a special headgear and an air cushion hip, kidney and blocking pad. The new goods weigh about one-third the weight of the old-style pads, now in use and give better protection to the player, it is declared. The new pads do not absorb perspiration or rain, but remain dry, and the combination hip, kidney and blocking pad has an air cushion.
